KILLING AFTER RAID IN LESLIE

One Man Arrested Slays Brother-in-law He Believed Informer.

Kills Self
HARLAN, Mar. 6.—A deplorable tragedy occurred just over the Leslie county line last Thursday evening, when Boyd Pennington shot and killed his brother-in-law, John Brock, and then committed suicide.

The killing grew out of the large raid recently made by officers, in which Pennington and his brother were charged with moonshining. One of the Pennington boys had just returned from Pinerille where he had executed bond before Commissioner Rollins for his appearance at the May term of Federal court at London. Pennington accused Brock of being responsible for the raid or at least to have reported the Penningtons.

ADVANTAGES OF LIBRARY NEGLECTED

Fifty Per Cent People Fail to Use Libraries for Education and Recreation

By Roy Gibbons
CHICAGO, March 6.—Between community indifference and inadequate financial support, 50 per cent of the American people are missing the public library advantages they might enjoy free.

The statement is that of Secretary Carl H. Milam of the American Library Association, who has just finished a national survey of the situation in his organization's behalf. He finds: That only 11,000,000 of our 110,000,000 population are registered book borrowers, that few who do borrow take full advantage of their opportunities, that most libraries fall far short of accomplishing what they might, that the best equipped do not give a maximum of service, and that 14 states are without traveling library systems to reach rural districts.

Milam attributes these conditions to public failure to realize what libraries can do in promoting popular, and especially adult, education, and to insufficient awards to attract recruits into the library field.

"In 1876," says Milam, "there were in the country approximately 3682 libraries, with a total of some 12,000,000 volumes. Today there are 9200 libraries, not counting those in communities of less than 1000, and a dozen of the larger ones possess more books than all of them put together 50 years ago.

Two men who claim to be ex-soldiers wounded in Belgium during the late war have been in Middlesboro for a few days seeking financial aid from the Salvation Army and other sources. A representative of this organization and members of the police department have begun an investigation of the records of the men.

It is said that the men have no discharge papers or other evidence of military service in their possession. They say that their papers are in Washington pending action on pensions which have been applied for. Apparently they have been traveling from town to town. Money has been given them by the Salvation Army and individuals since they have been here.

LEGION PLANS TO AMERICANIZE ALL ALIENS IN U. S.

Veterans Will Turn Whole Attention To Problem of Foreign-Born—Say Will Abolish "European Settlements"

OWSLEY, COMMANDER, TELLS FOUR PLATFORM PLANKS

By Norris Quinn
INDIANAPOLIS, Mar. 6.—How the American Legion soon will embark on a sweeping Americanization program that will do away with segregated foreign settlements in American cities was detailed for the first time here by Colonel Alvin Owsley, national commander of the legion.

The World War veterans' program, Owsley said, will aim—

TO RESTRICT immigration for at least five years by Congressional enactment.

TO LIMIT immigration thereafter "to such aliens as we can assimilate."

TO REFORM conditions at Ellis Island to the end that treatment of incoming aliens will not be such as to render them antagonistic to America.

TO LAUNCH a nation-wide campaign of education in which every American will be used to join in Americanizing unassimilated aliens.

Found Platform Planks

"Our present program is fourfold," the legion commander said. "We are working for hospitalization of veterans, the rehabilitation, a bonus and Americanization."

"Before long the first three planks automatically will be carried out. We then shall turn our undivided attention to Americanization."

"First of all we shall strive to wipe out every 'little Italy,' 'little Poland,' 'little Greece' and every other kind of segregated foreign settlement."

"This we shall carry out through education of aliens. Already hundreds of members of the American Legion in all parts of the country voluntarily are acting as teachers of English and civil government."

"We shall establish free night school for those who work by day and day schools for those who work by night. We shall call upon Americans living in districts adjoining those where foreigners live to bring America to the aliens."

To Boost Playgrounds
"We shall use our influence for the establishment of community playgrounds and civic centers where the foreign-born will be asked to come and bring their children."

"Further we shall ask the federal government to set aside funds to be used in teaching prospective citizens in the elements of citizenship."

"Already we have initiated a legislative program in every state which forbids instruction in any foreign tongue before a pupil has passed from the eighth grade and which makes a course in civil government state and national compulsory in elementary schools."

"While this process of assimilation is going on, we shall ask the government to bar further immigration—for at least five years."

Ask Restriction
"Then we should like to see the government work out a system of limitation of immigration which would admit only those foreigners whom we easily can make into Americans."

Owsley declared definitely that as "assimilable immigrants" he meant those from the north of Europe and added as an afterthought, "and such of those from southern and middle Europe as are willing to accommodate themselves to American institutions."

"Restriction," the commander said, "should be based not on sentiment but on common sense."

MEMPHIS, Mar. 6.—David Chalmer and Miss Peggy Wright, both of Memphis, who were married in Los Angeles yesterday, according to a dispatch from that city, were first married here in November 7, 1922, but Miss Wright obtained a divorce in December.

The first wedding, friends of the couple say, was entered into suddenly, on a dare and Miss Wright returned the same night to her own home.

Trial of Six U. M. W. Starts Today—

Witness Heard Clark Say He Would Kill All Scabs and "Wipe Out Breed"

IDENTIFIES SOME OF DEFENDANTS AS OF MOB

By Associated Press.
MARION, Ill., Mar. 6.—Bernard J. Jones, survivor of the Herrin mine riots, today at the trial of Hugh Willis, state board member of the Illinois mine workers, and five other defendants charged with murder in connection with the riots, pointed out James Brown, negro, and Otis Clark as two members of the mob who made him and his companions prisoners. He saw them with guns and quoted Clark as saying, "I have spent five nights watching these scabs and we will kill them all if I have to do it myself. This is not West Virginia. We will kill them all and wipe out the breed." He asserted the prisoners of the mob were formed in a line four miles long before a barbed wire fence. He declared a member of the mob said, "when I say you scabs start through that barbed wire." The same voice also directed those with shot guns to fire first and those with rifles next. Then he said somebody shouted, "Go" and the shooting started. Jones said he climbed the fence and ran. He declared Willis was present when the men were shot.

Later a statement was obtained from him in which he denied any knowledge of or connection with the crime with which he is charged and completed exonerated Stansberry.

Mrs. McJelton, who was arrested at San Bernardino, Cal., three weeks ago is in jail at Williamsburg. She was brought back to Corbin last Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Young who later in the day accompanied her to Williamsburg. When arraigned for preliminary hearing her bond was increased from $2,000 to $5,000 and she was remanded to jail in default of bond. She refuses to make a statement for publication.

Attorney R. L. Pope and George Morgan of Williamsburg, are among the claimants of the rewards offered for the capture and conviction of the offenders. It is stated they obtained the evidence upon which it is believed the indictments were based during the preliminary investigations of the crime in the court of Magistrate Chestnut in this city.

A THOUGHT

Then Paul answered, What mean ye to weep and break mine heart, for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.—Acts 21:13

When Christianity wakes up, and every child that belongs to the Lord is willing to work for him, and, if need be, to die for him, then Christianity will advance.—Moody.

THE TASK OF TWO PEOPLES

The main barrier left in the way of a concerted policy between the United States and ourselves has, after long delays, been broken down, says the London Observer. We, and we alone, are the two countries which can together do something to restrain war and rescue peace. Neither country by itself has this power, as the past four years emphatically declare. Together they can exert their influence decisively. American aid is necessary to win the peace as it was to win the war. In the making of peace, as in the making of war, America has interests and responsibilities identical with our own. The funding agreement link them more closely. It is essential for the two countries and for the world that they should find and act upon a largest common measure of agreement in policy. While they stand aloof or stand separately there is nothing to guarantee Europe's moral or economic recovery from the war. While they look on, their own fortunes are in jeopardy with the rest.

The argument is inescapable. It needs for support no sentimental basis in favor of Anglo-Saxon attachments. It is plain, hard common sense. Neither they nor we have choice or preference in our outlook. We are both caught alike in the entangling logic of the world's condition. As our chief interests are the same, so is our duty. With American and England agreed upon the essentials of a peace policy, all things become possible. In the first place, in return to the rudiments of peace-making, in which Europe is growing daily more rusty, in the second place an advance to more permanent conquests, conciliation, disarmament, which are today as far off as they seemed in 1915. It has now, in short, with the two English-speaking nations to determine whether the war was fought to save or destroy their own civilization.

Though we lose interest in many of our organizations, the regular meeting of the Young Men's Crap Shooters Association are always well attended.

THE USE OF WORDS

Words, as the vehicle of our expression, are the most tangible of all the qualities that we acquire. With them we are unable to voice the high emotions and deepest passions, the most fanciful pictures and the most glorious music, if we but learn their mastery.

The highest of all the arts, poetry, is but an arrangement of words. What noble forms such arrangements may take, though, are unconfined. The immortal lines of Homer, brought down across the years, the inspiring verses Dante, the delicacy of Spenser, the divine words of Milton, and the wisdom of Shakespeare before which the whole world bows, are all words.

With words a poet can paint a picture, vivid and clear and shining, of such enduring qualities that neither time nor elements can ever efface its color. With words, too, Shelley or Lanier can express a music of such sweetness and depth that its tones resound throughout the ages.

Not everyone is a poet, and not every one is an orator. But the ability is given to every one to learn appreciation of these qualities in others, and to study words, written and spoken, so that they may express all that is in their power, to him.

Adventures of The Twins
By Olive Roberts Barton

When the Twins left the queer mixed up school they hear a queer flapping sound overhead.

And looking in they saw an automobile with wings roosting on a tree.

Of all the queer things they had seen in Mix-Up Land, this was the queerest.

"Want a ride?" offered the automobile obligingly.

"Yes thank you," answered Nancy. "It is quite safe."

"Safe?" laughed the automobile. "Why, I'm just as safe as a balloon with a hole in it. Nothing could be safer than that."

Nick laughed. "Mix-Up Land is such a queer place we don't know what is safe and what isn't. Why do you fly instead of run?"

"Why does the sun shine at night, and the moon shine in the day time?" asked the queer automobile. "Why does anything do anything in Mix-Up Land? Why do elephants chirp and sparrows trumpet, why do lions bark and dogs roar, why is the grass blue and the sky green, why is—"

"Oh, oh oh!" cried Nancy, putting her hands over her ears. "Don't say anything more please. We are getting so mixed up we'll soon be Mix-Uppers ourselves."

The automobile rattled its bolts. "Well you asked me, so I was just telling you," it answered. "But I'm not so crazy as I look. Automobiles that fly have some advantage over automobiles that roll in the ground."

Do you still wish to get to Jack Shaw's house on top of the steeple?"

"Yes, yes, yes!" cried both the Twins at once. "We want to put him out and put King Even-Steven in."

"Then climb up and jump in," said the automobile. "Perhaps if you guide me right, I can run into it and wreck it."

With shouts of glee, in scrambled the Twins, and away flew the automobile.

Mix-Up Land looked like a game of a hundred colors spread out below.

GARBAGE ORDINANCE STILL DISOBEYED, SAY OFFICERS

While conditions of sanitation are improving as a result of the clean-up campaign inaugurated by Dr. George Hays, county health officer, and Miss Wilhelmine Marx, Red Cross nurse, there are still many cases where the city garbage ordinance is not being obeyed, according to the health officer.

One of the most open violations of the city law is the throwing of garbage along the canal bank. Piles of cans, rags, papers and other rubbish may be seen along the sides of the stream for almost its entire length. As a whole, the public is taking seriously the warnings of the health officer and many places have already been cleaned up.

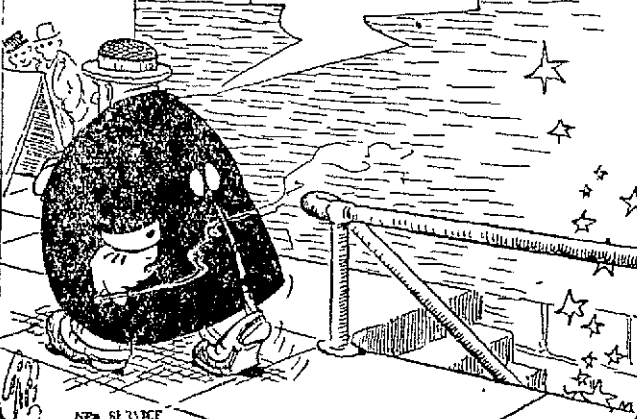

Violations of the ordinance will, after notice of such has been given the offenders, be punished by the city.

THERE'S AN END TO ALL THINGS

THE ONE-MAN WOMAN
By Ruth Agnes Abelling.

"But I want my Mama! I want my Mama!" Dorothy wailed, her head buried in Kate's lap.

Kate gathered the child in her arms. But Dorothy refused to be comforted.

Justin who had been sitting silently by, rose from his chair.

"Let me take the little lady." His heavy voice rumbled in his throat. He held out his arms. Kate put the child in them.

Holding the little body close, Justin set off across the veranda, talking the while, quietly, to the sobbing child.

Strangely, as the elderly man talked to Dorothy, the sobbing ceased. The silent prairie man, with that heaven-given quality, born of the love of broad stretches of rain and sun-kissed fields, of wind-blown trees, had soothed the little grieving heart.

Still carrying the child, he walked off across the field to the woodland. Kate watched, as the figure disappeared in the shadow of the trees. How many times her father had taken her in his arms when she was a child, and walking out through that very grove, of which he seemed so much a part, soothed her troubled heart.

He always seemed to understand the burden of the human heart and his touch upon the wounds had been as gentle as love could make it.

At length Kate turned to the house and went upstairs to her low room. As she opened the door, the battered trunk which had once been Dan's property came into the line of her vision.

She hesitated, her hand still on the door.

"I had almost forgotten the trunk," she said, half aloud.

Crossing the room, she lifted the much-labeled cover. She had thought, when she closed it before, that probably it never would be opened again. But some strange influence impelled her to raise the lid and kneel beside it.

She touched the garments which were folded inside. Dan's garments.

Tomorrow James Latham would come. He had told her he loved her, that he wanted to marry her. There were but 24 hours yet to elapse before he expected her answer.

Here, in the presence of Dan's possessions, things which once had been verily a part of him, the situation seemed ridiculous! Yet there were Alice and her story, with their embittering taint. Could James Latham and his devotion dull the pain of that wound? Kate wondered.

MUSIC OF THE PINES

It is only in quiet you hear it—
The wind is out for a play
With the long-fingered pines of the forest;
It comes in a wondrous way—

It purrs among them gently
In melody sublime
It whirs and stirs the innermost
boughs;
Swifter and swifter running
It leaps and bounds the forest round—
List! an organ prelude playing!

Incomparable music of the pines,
Sighing itself away;
Pulling the needles of every tree
With dancing and rhythmic sway!

Recent Bride Honored

Mrs. Francis Callison, nee Salmon, a recent bride, was honored last night at a prettily planned surprise shower at the home of Mrs. M. S. Callison. The hostesses for the shower were Mrs. Hugh Allen, Mrs. D. G. Hinks, Mrs. B. B. Campbell, Mrs. R. M. Barry and Mrs. W. R. Pool. The guests, about fifty in number, assembled at Mrs. Hugh Allen's with their gifts of household articles, and then went in a body to Mrs. Callison's. The party was a most enjoyable occasion.

TODAY'S RECIPES

WATERCRESS SOUP

To make cream of watercress soup: Cook two bunches or one quart of finely chopped watercress in a quarter of a cup of butter for 10 minutes, taking care that the butter does not brown. Add three cups of water or veal stock, a medium sized onion, sliced, a bit of bay leaf, a teaspoon each of salt and sugar, and a quarter of a cup of raw rice, well mashed. Cook for 30 minutes after it begins to boil, keeping the kettle closely covered. Strain, rubbing every particle cress and rice through the strainer. Add a pint rich milk, bring to the boiling point, season to taste and serve.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the general kidney, liver and bladder medicine. It is a physician's prescription.

Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merits and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

NORMA TALMADGE'S Manners

BY NORMA TALMADGE

Copyright NEA Service, Inc.

Manners are acquired more easily than money, and are much more essential to social success. The first medium of social intercourse is speech; hence it must be regarded as of first importance. A man rises or falls with his own words. The tone of his voice, the quality of his laughter, the choice of his words conspire to reveal his character. Think before you speak!

IN CONVERSATION

1: The man or woman who wishes to converse agreeably must first learn to listen politely.

2: One refrains from interrupting the speech of another, regardless of what wonderful idea may be ready to burst from his own lips.

3: One never expresses strong likes or dislikes, particularly on modes or morals, and thus avoids argument and offense.

4: To avoid appearing ridiculous, one never uses a word unless he is sure he can pronounce it properly and understands its meaning.

5: It's well to refrain from asking questions, especially personal questions, because everyone resents inquisitiveness.

It is bad manners to whisper in company; words that must be whispered ordinarily never should be spoken.

EASTERN DIXIE HIGHWAY TO BE PUSHED IN 1923

Kentucky State Highway Commission
Will Appropriate Additional Funds For Completion,
Is Announced

ROAD BY HERE WILL SOON BE IN GOOD SHAPE

Boosters of the Eastern Link of the Dixie Highway running from Cincinnati to Knoxville, can well be jubilant after the announcement from the Louisville meeting of the Kentucky State Highway Commission, just held that the Commission would bend its efforts and make its appropriations largely this year to complete the missing links in trunk lines, including the eastern link of the Dixie Highway.

If the grade seven miles south of Livingston around Gauley mountain is surfaced, with the completion of the road in the East Bernstadt and Williamsburg section, there is really not so much of the eastern link of the Dixie in Kentucky that cannot be traveled all the year, for, while some of the remaining stretches south of Livingston are rough, they have bottom. The East Bernstadt and Williamsburg sections are already under construction, so that it is to be hoped that the Gauley mountain stretch will be surfaced this year and other unimproved sections south of it put under construction for improvement. Unfortunately for the points on the Dixie Highway from Corbin to Jellico, on the Kentucky-Tennessee line, no financing of the road from Jellico to La Follette has ever been made by the Tennessee Highway Commission and the middle ten mile stretch of this road has never been surfaced. There is some hope that all of the Southern Railway route from Jellico to Coal Creek, may be surfaced with the exception of eight or ten miles north of Careyville, which is financed for grading, and being in shaly ground, may be passable next winter.

On the other hand, the last link to be graded between Corbin and Middlesboro is under contract. If this could be finished, then surfaced by next Fall, it would be possible to get from Corbin to Knoxville, via Barboursville, Pineville, Middlesboro, Tazewell and Maynardville, as there is only about three quarters of a mile to be surfaced between Middlesboro and Knoxville on this, the original Dixie Highway route.

The Tennessee State Highway Commission intended to surface that short link this summer, but, under an act just passed by the Tennessee legislature, the State Highway Commission has been removed, and an engineer placed in charge of Tennessee road program. Suit has been filed, however, by two of the commission members, whose terms are not expired, to have their removal declared illegal. Doubtless this matter will be cleared up before many weeks, and the link referred to surfaced this summer. Except for construction work between La Follette and Coal Creek, the road from Middlesboro to Knoxville, via La Follette, Coal Creek and Clinton, could be traveled all the year.—Appalachian Trade Journal.

We Sold a $200 Order of Keen Kutter Tools going to Naples, Italy, Saturday

John Cozzino came down from Lynch to buy tools at our store Saturday—just as all people do at Lynch who want fine tools. He had them shipped to Naples, Italy, his home, where he is going to use them in building and cabinet making. He has used tools for many years on two continents, but—

"ALL ITALY HAS NOTHING TO EQUAL
KEEN KUTTER TOOLS," HE SAID

He came to our store because we have the largest assortment of fine tools in Southeastern Kentucky and because the folks at Lynch had recommended our quality. Then he has come to learn in America that Keen Kutter on tools has the same meaning as Sterling on silverware and Haviland on china.

CHILDRENS HOME PLEADS FOR FUNDS

Would Raise $600,000 to Care For Homeless Boys and Girls in Kentucky

A cottage village of seventeen buildings to house the hundreds of starving homeless children of the State is visualized by the Kentucky Children's Home Society as the goal of the campaign, to raise $600,000 within the coming few months.

At present there are only two permanent buildings of the cottage village erected on the eighty acre site of the home at Lyndon: the dormitory building constructed in four units to shelter one hundred children and the administration building which also includes the school rooms.

There are at present 185 children in the home and because of overcrowded conditions many of the older boys are forced to sleep two in a bed in temporary barrack buildings.

Under the Society's care there have been more than five thousand boys and girls many of them now grown to manhood and womanhood, rescued from their squalid surroundings during the twenty-six years of the Society's existence. According to Geo. L. Sehon, Superintendent of the Society, many of these children have had to forfeit the training which makes them useful citizens. Many others would have been criminals and an absolute detriment to their State and country, whereas, through the work of the Society they have been molded into representative citizens and credit to Kentucky.

Judge Robert W. Bingham is chairman of the campaign committee and W. W. Davies of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky., are Vice-Chairmen.

COLORED WAITERS AT HOTEL FINED FOR SELLING LIQUOR

Bill Ellison and Walter McGee, colored waiters at the Boneway Inn, were convicted in the police court yesterday for selling liquor and each fined $100 and costs, sentenced to jail for sixty days and put under a $1000 peace bond. Arthur Lawson, Claude Parker and Mary Norris of Harlan gave testimony that led to the conviction of the negroes.

According to the evidence, the two waiters brought three pints of whiskey to the rooms of the Harlan trio Sunday morning and received the regular price for it in addition to substantial tips. The negroes strongly maintained their innocence, during the trial but one of them is said to have confessed afterwards.

Parker and Lawson were said to have been drunk and acting in a disorderly manner when Policeman Charlie Yeary and A. D. DeBusk arrested them at the Inn Sunday morning. The two men claimed that they had lost about $100 while drinking but no evidence as to who had taken the money was furnished.

The two Harlan men and the woman were each fined $24.25 for alleged disorderly conduct and are still held at the city jail.

BAPTISTS DEFEAT CHRISTIANS AT BASKETBALL 21 to 5

The Baptist Sunday school team last night silenced forever all criticism of them for failing to play when scheduled a week ago, and defeated their opponents, the Christians, 21 to 5, in a valiant game. These inter-church games are becoming more and more interesting as time goes on. The Presbyterians defeated the Christians a week ago, the Baptists beat them last night, and now the two victors teams will be arrayed against each other next Monday night.

H.R. Hatfield and Smith for the Baptists, and Fallon for the Christians were star players of the evening. Coach Porter refereed the game.

The lineups follow:
Baptist: Smith (F), Hatfield (F), Moore (C), Hill (G), Browning (G).
Christian: Wilson, Scales, Dotson, Fallon, Campbell.
